

H44J He Confederation against Roger 211

for them in a delightful country, Bernard's thanks are conveyed in two gracious letters; other letters from him attest how Roger's fame has become world-wide* he rejoices that his humility has found favour in the royal eyes and gives advice on the government of the realm,¹ If Roger had still to fear Greek and German, he had ended his life-struggle as the Mend of Cluny and Citeaux,
as a King famous among the Latin nations.

* Caruso, JWW, Rig, Sfctf, vol. IJ,» p, 976,

THIRD

UF A W<C.'AT» RCKiKR II,